

IELTS Mock Test 2020 May Reading Practice Test 2

HOW TO USE

You have 2 ways to access the test

1. Open this URL <http://link.intergreat.com/3jieg> on your computer
2. Use your mobile device to scan the QR code attached

READING PASSAGE 1

You should spend about 20 minutes on Questions 1-13, which are based on Reading Passage 1 below.

A gentle giant and a pint-sized bully

Though a giant - more horse than dog, some say - the Irish Wolfhound, towering over his canine brethren, makes a surprisingly good pet. Hard as it may be to imagine how a hound bred for wolf-hunting, with muscular limbs, a swift turn of pace, the eyesight of an eagle, the stature of a thoroughbred, primed for, and indeed employed in, battle many times for war-hungry Celtic lords of yore, could possibly cut the mustard as a domestic pet, trust me: looks can be deceiving. In fact, despite his size and reputation, the wolfhound is becoming an increasingly popular pet choice for many families up and down the country.

Why? Well, there is a number of very good reasons. Firstly, the wolfhound is of above-average intelligence, and, therefore, responds very well to obedience training (provided the training is done from an early age, otherwise the animal's strong prey drive may hinder development in this area). Secondly, he is very good-natured; despite the hound's reputation as a fierce, battle-hardened animal, he is, in fact, very calm and even-tempered. Thirdly, the Irish Wolfhound is a very social animal and does well with young children. He views himself as a member of the family and so will be fiercely protective of all his 'siblings' and will not intentionally let any of them get in harm's way, though his considerable frame and slight clumsiness can lead to collisions if the little members of the household don't watch where they are going.

Though the Irish Wolfhound makes an adequate guard dog, he is, surprisingly perhaps, not terribly strong in this department. The hound tends to be aloof with strangers rather than aggressive towards them, and he may not, at least initially, bark at intruders, therefore scoring low in the watchdog department as well by failing to sound the alarm or alert the other members of the household to danger in good time. If he is provoked, however, or if a member of his 'pack' is threatened, his primeval instincts kick in. When that happens, intruders'd better look out!

He is a very needy pet and a large enclosed backyard is a must-have for any prospective owner because though he is easily house-trained, it is simply not fair to keep a dog of his size cooped up inside all day. His appetite is huge and this is one of the practicalities to consider before buying a Wolfhound - can you afford him? His large appetite also means that regular exercise is essential in order for him to remain healthy and at a reasonably good weight. Five-minute walks to the corner shop will not do; this animal needs proper exercise and should be taken out for between one and two hours each day. Another practicality, and also a factor that influences cost (the cost of clean-up), is his tendency to shed. Irish Wolfhounds shed a lot of fur and dog hair will likely be deposited all over the house in vast quantities. If all this is bearable and if you still want a cuddly, affectionate giant anyway, then go for it! The Irish Wolfhound will provide you with many years of loyalty and friendship.

The truth, though, is that not everyone has the space to accommodate such a beast. And, indeed, others would struggle to find the time to devote to this needy creature. The alternative, perhaps, is the comparably tiny little West Highland White Terrier. The Highland and the Wolfhound have one very important thing in common; they are both fantastic with kids. It is here, though, that the similarity ends. The Highland sheds virtually no hair at all, so you won't be cleaning up after him all the time. He also loves to make noise, making him the perfect watchdog and quick to alert you when anything suspicious occurs. His size limits his ability to respond meaningfully to any real threat discovered though. Compared to the Wolfhound, he is a little more of a challenge in the training department, and must be monitored carefully and shown his place in the 'pack', otherwise his aggressive streak may come out and take over.

In almost every way possible, the Highland and the Wolfhound are different characters. The Highland could never be described as placid, and, in fact, is extremely excitable and very energetic. This little fellow suffers from a size complex of sorts, too, which sees him determined to boss those around him and have his way, despite his modest profile. He is not that interested in 'cuddles' either, so don't let his size fool you into suggesting otherwise -this is no toy dog. And he is, in general, not the most affectionate of dogs, being far happier digging up your garden or barking at the neighbour's cat than lying in the arms of his owner. So, while the Wolfhound is a gentle giant, the West Highland is, well, a little terrier in every sense of the word.

But while their character may differ, their fondness for exercise does not. The Highland is an intelligent breed and needs stimulation; regular walks are essential. He also has a penchant for water and loves to go swimming. And while he is excellent with older kids, toddlers should not be left alone around the Highland as their size, coupled with their noisiness and hyperactivity, may prompt an aggressive response from the dog.

Though both breeds have their strengths and weaknesses as pets, overall, either would make an excellent addition to the family. The West Highland will be content enough indoors, provided he gets regular exercise, but the Wolfhound must have an outdoor play area. And that is the one point I must emphasize; don't buy a Wolfhound unless you have plenty of room.

Questions 1-10

Complete the table below.

Choose 10 answers from the box and write the correct letter, a-i, next to questions 1-10.

	Irish Wolfhound	West Highland White Terrier
Temperament and Considerations When Training:	1 <input type="text"/>	6 <input type="text"/>
	2 <input type="text"/>	7 <input type="text"/>
	3 <input type="text"/>	8 <input type="text"/>
Behaviour around Children:	4 <input type="text"/>	9 <input type="text"/>
	5 <input type="text"/>	10 <input type="text"/>

A	not very tolerant of or interested in gestures of affection from children (or any member of the family)
B	generally well-behaved around children, but inclined to react badly to very young children who are loud and energetic
C	reacts well to training once training has commenced at an early stage in life
D	strong sense of pack loyalty makes it want to look after and care for young family members
E	restless and can make itself a bit of a nuisance around the house and in the garden
F	reasonably good with children of all ages, though its natural awkwardness can mean it poses a slight danger to young ones
G	must be taught its place in the hierarchy otherwise may try to dominate
H	a typically sedate and unexcitable temperament
I	requires more training and supervision
J	success of late-start training may be hindered by the animal's strong hunting instincts
K	better with younger children to whom its size poses less of a threat
L	training from a young age is essential, otherwise it will lack confidence

Questions 11-13

Access <https://ieltonlinetests.com> for more practices

Complete each sentence with the correct ending, A-E, below.

Write the correct letter, A-E.

11 The Irish Wolfhound, despite its size and reputation

12 The West Highland White Terrier is quick to respond to intruders and alert the other members of the household

13 Granted the Irish Wolfhound has the ideal temperament to become a loyal member of the family

- | | |
|----------|---|
| A | actually makes a pretty ineffectual watchdog, being slow to react to intruders or to perceive them as a threat. |
| B | it is important to consider the costs of feeding and cleaning up after it, as well as the space requirements for keeping one, before making the decision to purchase. |
| C | but it should never be left unsupervised around children of any age since it has an excitable temperament and can be aggressive towards them. |
| D | is actually a fierce guard dog, alerting family members at the slightest hint that something is wrong. |
| E | though it is largely ineffectual when it comes to neutralising any threats that have been identified. |

READING PASSAGE 2

You should spend about 20 minutes on Questions 14-26, which are based on Reading Passage 2 below.

The Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican

Born in Kiskeam in his mother's native North Cork, Hugh O'Flaherty was brought up in Killarney, where his father was the steward of a local golf club. He was the eldest of four children, and, from an early age, appeared to have a vocation for the priesthood. His fondness for the church was formed in part during his education, which began at Presentation Brothers' School in a local monastery in his home town. He later attended Waterford College, but the priesthood was always going to be his calling, so he applied to Mungret College in Limerick and was accepted into the seminary there. He was posted to Rome as a young seminarian in 1922, the year in which Mussolini came to power. While studying in Rome, he earned a degree in theology and was ordained in 1925 before going on to study there for a further two years, earning his doctorates in divinity, canon law and philosophy.

O'Flaherty, posted at various times over the next few years in Egypt, Haiti, San Domingo and Czechoslovakia, as well as Palestine, soon proved himself a very able diplomat. His golfing skills were also noted, and he developed a number of high-profile connections in Italy through the world of golf, often playing with the likes of ex-king Alfonso of Spain and Count Ciana, Mussolini's son-in-law. These people were no doubt impressed by the golfing talents of the man, which were, considering he had been playing the game since early childhood and was a natural, by then rather impressive to say the least. O'Flaherty would come to rely on his high profile, as well as his 'high' connections in the coming years as war broke out in Europe and Italy aligned itself with Hitler's Germany and its policy of discriminating against minority groups. His connections would give him the power and influence to make a difference to the lives of thousands of innocent people when the time came, whilst his high profile made the German and Italian authorities slow to move against him.

In the autumn of 1942, the Germans and Italians started to crack down on prominent figures they viewed as being hostile to their goals. As their policies became more and more extreme, many people started to become alarmed by fascist propaganda. The German and Italian governments were not interested in justice, they were aligned on an ideological level and started to execute their policy of ethnically cleansing Italy of the so-called 'unwanted': Jews, blacks, gypsies and so on. O'Flaherty, on the other hand, having socialised with many prominent Jews throughout his time in Italy, did not adhere to the Nazi ideology, and it was then that he started to act, protecting innocent Jews and other victims of injustice, and keeping them away from the claws of the Italian and German police, whose orders were to ship them to concentration camps.

O'Flaherty used his old college and indeed his own official residence as hiding places for the people he was trying to protect. As the situation got more and more desperate, and the numbers of people threatened grew, he even turned to using monasteries and convents as hideouts, calling in favours from old friends in these places who, by agreeing to house the 'unwanted', were not just risking a reprimand from the fascists had they been caught but were endangering their own lives by being party to O'Flaherty's campaign. In the summer of 1943, O'Flaherty extended his efforts to include helping escaped British prisoners-of-war and shot-down allied airmen. Calling once again on his contacts, he developed a network of apartments in which to house them until their safe return to Britain could be arranged.

By the end of the war, over 6,500 Jews and American and British soldiers had O'Flaherty to thank for their escape from the Germans and a nearly certain death. His success in never being identified when on unauthorised rescue missions outside of Vatican City, and in smuggling Jews and allied airmen inside the city led to him being given the nickname the Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican, an acknowledgement of how much the master of disguise O'Flaherty had become. After the war, O'Flaherty continued to serve in Rome and received many accolades, including the US Medal of Freedom and the title Commander of the British Empire. The fledgling Jewish state of Israel also recognised O'Flaherty's contribution by proclaiming him Righteous among the Nations.

In 1960, O'Flaherty retired and went home to Ireland to a town called Cahirsheveen. There he lived for the remainder of his life until he died on the 30th October 1963. His death was mourned throughout the world and the prestigious New York Times carried a front-page tribute in his honour.

Margaret Mead once said: 'Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed, citizens can change the world. Indeed, it is the only thing that ever has'. O'Flaherty and his loyal group of helpers within the Vatican and without are exactly the kind of people she was referring to. In life, he saved thousands of innocent Romans; in death, he is remembered as a man who bravely stood up to extremism and who was not prepared to turn a blind eye to injustice.

Questions 14-16

Choose the correct letter, A, B, C or D.

14 O'Flaherty went to Rome

- A voluntarily for personal reasons as he wanted to pursue his studies there.
- B after completing his studies at Mungret College in Limerick and becoming a priest.
- C at the same time as a Mussolini went to study there.
- D under the instructions of the religious organisation of which he was a part.

15 O'Flaherty's golfing talents

- A were exploited by him as a means by which to meet and influence important people.
- B were the product of his extremely hard work and tireless practice from a young age.
- C went unnoticed until he was posted in Italy where they impressed a number of high-profile individuals.
- D were exaggerated by friends and connections in order to win him favour with the German and Italian authorities.

16 When it came to Nazi ideology, O'Flaherty's beliefs

- A were similar to those of Jews, blacks and gypsies, who viewed the German interference in Italy as unwanted.
- B were influenced by the conclusions he had drawn from socialising with certain groups of people in the past.
- C were in keeping up with the stated views of the German and Italian governments.
- D were similarly hostile and extreme as he was influenced by fascist propaganda.

Questions 17-18

There are TWO correct answers.

Choose TWO letters from A, B, C, D and E.

Where did O'Flaherty conceal the people he had taken into his care?

- A in the place at which he was then studying
- B in a former college that had been converted into a network of apartments
- C in the place where he officially lived at the time
- D in the residences of certain religious groups
- E in the houses of old friends of his

Questions 19-21

Choose the correct letter, A, B, C or D.

19 What impressive aspect of the actions of O'Flaherty's helpers does the writer highlight?

- A how eager they were to help him
- B how many of them were willing to volunteer
- C their disregard for the possible consequences of being caught
- D their ability to coordinate and work together

20 Why was O'Flaherty nicknamed the Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican?

- A He resembled a Scarlet Pimpernel in the disguises he used to wear.
- B He often disguised himself as a Vatican priest.
- C He had successfully used disguises to avoid being identified.
- D He had earned a Master's in the art of disguise.

21 What impression does the writer leave us with of his own personal feelings with respect to O'Flaherty's life and achievements?

- A He admires O'Flaherty's bravery and determination to stop injustice.
- B He admires O'Flaherty's loyalty to the Vatican and his church.

- C He feels that Margaret Mead was a superior speech-maker to O'Flaherty.
- D He feels he didn't get the recognition he deserves for his achievements.

Questions 22-26

Complete the summary below.

Choose NO MORE THAN TWO WORDS from the passage for each answer.

A moral, determined and resourceful man

O'Flaherty's personal beliefs were at loggerheads with fascist ideology, which he saw as mindless propaganda, so he took it upon himself to combat the injustices being perpetrated against Jews and other minority groups at the hands of the German and Italian police, who, acting on orders from above, were rounding said groups up to be sent to 22 _____

Initially, O'Flaherty used familiar places as hideouts for the people he was trying to conceal. However, as the situation started to deteriorate, and more and more people were in need of assistance, he was forced to call upon old friends and contacts for help. In helping O'Flaherty, these friends showed their own bravery as getting 23 _____ might have cost them their lives.

Not only did O'Flaherty help the 'unwanted', he also extended his assistance to fallen 24 _____, as well as British soldiers who had been detained by the Germans. By the war's end, the lives of 6,500 people had been spared thanks to O'Flaherty and his helpers.

So effective had he been at 25 _____ Jews and servicemen inside that he earned the nickname The Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican. O'Flaherty received a huge number of 26 _____ from countries all around the world in acknowledgement of his war-time feats.

READING PASSAGE 3

You should spend about 20 minutes on Questions 27-40, which are based on Reading Passage 3 below.

ALL YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT SNOW

Types of Snowfall

Snow is typically the product of weather conditions in which an extratropical cyclone has formed. Extratropical cyclones bring extremely hazardous weather, such as high winds and heavy rain or snow, and are often referred to as windstorms in Europe. The band of precipitation associated with their warm front is often very extensive. When the warm front and cold front collide, snow can result on the poleward side of the precipitation band; that is, on the northern side in the Northern Hemisphere and on the southern side in the Southern Hemisphere.

Lake-effect snow is another kind of common snowfall. Although the name suggests a particular correspondence of this type of precipitation to lake features, in fact, all narrow bands of water may generate it. Lake-effect snow occurs when the water temperature is considerably higher than the air temperature of a cold front progressing over a large water mass. Warm moist air is then attracted upward at a relatively fast rate, condensing to form vertically oriented clouds. If the temperature difference between the body of water and the air above is significant, say, 13 degrees or more, this can result in heavy and prolonged snowfall.

Mountainous areas are also prone to experiencing heavy snowfall. Accumulations typically occur on the windward side of the mountain as precipitation is 'squeezed out' of the warm moist air as it is forced to ascend the slopes; the moisture condenses upon contact with the colder air found at higher altitudes and heavy snowfall can then occur if ground conditions are sufficiently cold.

How Snow Is Formed

Access <https://ieltonlinetests.com> for more practices

Snow crystals, tiny supercooled cloud droplets, form at extremely low temperatures in the atmosphere. Temperatures lower than minus 35 degrees Celsius are required for this supercool moisture to freeze by itself. In warmer clouds, an aerosol particle such as clay or desert dust, or an ice nucleus is needed for the freezing to start.

Once a droplet of water has frozen, it starts to grow in the supersaturated environment of the cloud. Eventually, due to its size, the cloud will not be able to contain the ice crystal anymore. At this point the ice crystal will fall to the ground and, if it is not melted by warmer air at lower altitudes, it will do so as snow. Although the ice crystals that land on the ground are actually transparent, hollow imperfections in them mean that light is scattered and they often appear white in colour owing to diffuse reflection of the whole spectrum of light.

The Snowflake

The shape of a snowflake is determined by the atmospheric conditions present at the time of its formation, specifically temperature and humidity. Between 0 and -3 degrees Celsius, thin flat crystals called planar crystals grow. From -3 to 8, the crystals form needles or prisms with pencil-like shapes. The shape then reverts back to plate-like until after 22 degrees Celsius when column-like structures (needles and prisms, etc.) begin to form again. At temperatures of 22 degrees and below, as well as the column-like structures, more complex growth patterns also form.

Snowfall in the British Isles

Snowfall occurs frequently in the U.K., but the quantities are typically small and it seldom persists for very long. In recent years, a trend towards milder, wetter winters has been developing, though the 2010/11, 2011/12 and 2012/13 winters seem to have bucked the trend and, indeed, represent the longest period of consecutive cold winters for more than 50 years. For its latitude, the British Isles should see far more prolonged cold weather in winter and regular snowfall. However, the Gulf Stream, a mild Atlantic Ocean current, keeps the climate several degrees warmer than regions of similar latitude in other parts of the world. As a consequence, despite the occasional incident of prolonged cold, Britain's winters are typically not very severe.

Some parts of the isles see little, if any, snow from year to year. The most snow-prone are the Pennines, the Scottish Highlands, the Welsh Hills and the mountains of Northern Ireland. The Scottish Highlands boasts the isles' highest peaks and also their only winter ski resorts. For years, unreliable snowfall has threatened to close these resorts, though, having had three consecutive bumper seasons, there is now less pressure on the Scottish ski industry, which, not so long ago, was threatened with going out of existence.

Long-term weather forecasts for the British Isles are notoriously hard to get right; however, so far, three months before the official start of the meteorological winter in December, forecasters are predicting another winter of record-breaking low temperatures. They point to sunspot and geothermal activity, and changes in the strength of the Gulf Stream as key indicators of the fact that a cold winter is in prospect. Were their predictions to be realised, then this would point to the isles undergoing a subtle climatic change and a return to more severe winters in general.

Questions 27-33

Do the following statements agree with the information given in Reading Passage 3?

Write:

YES	if the statement agrees with the views of the writer
NO	if the statement contradicts the views of the writer
NOT GIVEN	if it is impossible to say what the writer thinks about this

27 When a warm front from an extratropical cyclone meets a cold front, snow is more likely to occur on the poleward side of the weather system.

28 Lake-effect snow is aptly named, given that it is a weather phenomenon which is only associated with lakes.

29 Heavy snowfall is more likely to be seen on the side of the mountain that is exposed to high winds.

30 In the absence of dust or a similar particle to start the freezing process, supercool moisture will not freeze in a cloud whose mean temperature is -34 degrees or more.

31 The real colour of snow is the same as the colour snow appears to be to the human eye.

32 Snowflakes shaped like a prism are more likely to form in milder weather than are flakes with more intricate growth patterns.

33 The thin flat crystals created at temperatures of between zero and minus three degrees Celsius are more voluminous than column-like crystals.

Questions 34-37

Complete the sentences below.

Choose NO MORE THAN THREE WORDS from the passage for each answer.

While snowfall is not an uncommon feature of a United Kingdom winter, it is rare for significant 34 _____ to accumulate, or for the snow to remain on the ground for any great length of time.

Three consecutive winters have failed to follow the 35 _____ towards milder, wetter weather.

Despite its latitude, the British Isles does not suffer from 36 _____ on account of the influence of the Gulf Stream.

Should next winter be another unusually cold one, this may be indicative of the fact that a 37 _____ is under way.

Questions 38-40

Complete the summary with the list of words A-F below.

Write the correct letter, A-F, in spaces 38-40 below.

The British Winter

Snowfall is not an uncommon sight in Britain during winter, but such weather rarely persists for very long. In fact, up until a few years ago, it looked like British winters were getting milder. However, this perception has changed fairly dramatically over the last three winters, which have been the longest 38 period of cold winters for more than half a century. It is now feared that the climate of the British Isles is changing and that, should the next few winters be equally severe, this could signal a permanent move to more 39 winter weather in general. Scientists blame sunspot and geothermal activity as well as the 40 influence of the Gulf Stream, which, until now, has kept Britain's climate milder than that of areas of similar latitude throughout the rest of the world.

A	uninterrupted
B	mild
C	strengthening
D	waning
E	extreme
F	direct

Solution:

- 1 C
- 2 H
- 3 J
- 4 D
- 5 F
- 6 E
- 7 G
- 8 I
- 9 A
- 10 B
- 11 A
- 12 E
- 13 B
- 27 YES
- 28 NO
- 29 YES
- 30 YES
- 31 NO
- 32 YES
- 33 NOT GIVEN

34 quantities

35 trend

36 severe winters|very cold weather

37 (subtle) climatic change

38 A

39 E

40 D

14 D

15 A

16 B

$\frac{17}{18}$ C,D

19 C

20 C

21 A

22 concentration camps

23 caught

24 allied armen

25 smuggling

26 accolades

Review and Explanations

1 Answer: C

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q1: Temperament and Considerations When Training in Irish Wolfhound C. reacts well to training once training has commenced at an early stage in life	Firstly, the wolfhound is of above-average intelligence, and, therefore, responds very well to obedience training (provided the training is done from an early age, otherwise the animal's strong prey drive may hinder development in this area).
Note: According to the question, "Temperament and Considerations When Training in Irish Wolfhound" From the passage, we can infer that "Firstly, the wolfhound is of above-average intelligence, and, therefore, responds very well to obedience training (provided the training is done from an early age, otherwise the animal's strong prey drive may hinder development in this area)." Which is will be a sentence support the writer's ideal in Q. The clues help the reader find out the answer: "the wolfhound is of above-average intelligence" in P will show more detail and support in the Q "Temperament". "provided the training is done from an early age, otherwise the animal's strong prey drive may hinder development in this area" in P will show more detail and support in the Q "When Training in Irish Wolfhound" in P. "training is done from an early age" in the P has the same meaning with "once training has commenced at an early stage in life" option C in Q. Therefore, the answer should be C. reacts well to training once training has commenced at an early stage in life

2 Answer: H

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage

Q 2 : Temperament and Considerations When Training in Irish Wolfhound A. a typically sedate and unexcitable temperament	Secondly, he is very good-natured; despite the hound's reputation as a fierce, battle-hardened animal, he is, in fact, very calm and even-tempered.
---	--

Note:

According to the question "Temperament and Considerations When Training in Irish Wolfhound"

From the passage, we can infer that "Secondly, he is very good-natured; despite the hound's reputation as a fierce, battle-hardened animal, he is, in fact, very calm and even-tempered." Which is a sentence will be support the writer's ideal in Q.

The clues help the reader to find out the answer:

"he is very good-natured" in P will show more details and support the ideals "Temperament" in the Q

"very calm and even-tempered" in P has the same meaning with "sedate" with option A in Q.

"despite the hound's reputation as a fierce, battle-hardened animal, he is" in P will show more detail and support "and "unexcitable temperament" with Option A in Q.

Therefore, the answer should be A typically sedate and unexcitable temperament

3 Answer: J

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q3: Temperament and Considerations When Training in Irish Wolfhound J. success of late-start training may be hindered by the animal's strong hunting instincts.	His appetite is huge and this is one of the practicalities to consider before buying a Wolfhound - can you afford him?

Note:

According to the question “Temperament and Considerations When Training in Irish Wolfhound”

From the passage we can know that “His appetite is huge and this is one of the practicalities to consider before buying a Wolfhound - can you afford him?” Which is a sentence support the writer’s ideal in Q.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“His appetite is huge” in P will show more details and support “the animal’s strong hunting instincts” with Option J in Q.

“can you afford him” in P will show more details and support the ideal “training may be hindered” in the Q.

Therefore, answer should J. success of late-start training may be hindered by the animal’s strong hunting instincts.

4 Answer: D

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q4: Behaviour around Children in Irish Wolfhound D. strong sense of pack loyalty makes it want to look after and care for young family members	He views himself as a member of the family and so will be fiercely protective of all his ‘siblings’ and will not intentionally let any of them get in harm’s way, though his considerable frame and slight clumsiness can lead to collisions if the little members of the household don’t watch where they are going.

Note:

From the question stated above, we can infer that 'Behaviour around Children in Irish Wolfhound'

From the passage we can know that the sentence "He views himself as a member of the family and so will be fiercely protective of all his 'siblings' and will not intentionally let any of them get in harm's way, though his considerable frame and slight clumsiness can lead to collisions if the little members of the household don't watch where they are going." Which is a sentence support the writer's ideal in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

"He views himself as a member of the family" in the P will show more and support the ideal "strong sense of pack loyalty " in Option D of Q.

"so will be fiercely protective of all his 'siblings' and will not intentionally let any of them get in harm's way" in the P will show more details and support "makes it want to look after and care for young family members" with Option D in the Q.

Therefore, answer should be D. strong sense of pack loyalty makes it want to look after and care for young family members

5 Answer: F

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q5: Behaviour around Children in Irish Wolfhound F. reasonably good with children of all ages, though its natural awkwardness can mean it poses a slight danger to young ones	though his considerable frame and slight clumsiness can lead to collisions if the little members of the household don't watch where they are going.

Note:

From the question, we can infer that “reasonably good with children of all ages, though its natural awkwardness can mean it poses a slight danger to young ones”

From the passage we can know that the sentence “though his considerable frame and slight clumsiness can lead to collisions if the little members of the household don’t watch where they are going” Which is a sentence support the writer’s ideal in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“can lead to collisions if the little members of the household” in P will show more details and support the ideal “it poses a slight danger to young ones” in Q.

“though” appears in both Q and P.

“slight” appears in both Q and P.

“poses” in Option F of Q has the same meaning with “lead” in P which mean present or constitute (a problem, danger, or difficulty).

The answer here should be F. reasonably good with children of all ages, though its natural awkwardness can mean it poses a slight danger to young ones

6 Answer: E

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q6: Temperament and Considerations When Training in West Highland White Terrier E. restless and can make itself a bit of a nuisance around the house and in the garden	And he is, in general, not the most affectionate of dogs, being far happier digging up your garden or barking at the neighbour’s cat than lying in the arms of his owner.

Note:

From the question stated above, we can infer that “restless and can make itself a bit of a nuisance around the house and in the garden“

From the passage we can know that the sentence “And he is, in general, not the most affectionate of dogs, being far happier digging up your garden or barking at the neighbour’s cat than lying in the arms of his owner.”Which is a sentence support the writer’s ideal in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“garden” appears in both Q and the P.

In this situation we can understand that “digging up your garden or barking at the neighbour’s cat” in P has the same meaning with “nuisance around the house and in the garden” in Option E of Q.

The answer here should be E . restless and can make itself a bit of a nuisance around the house and in the garden

7 Answer: G

Keywords in Question	Similar words in Passage
Q7: Temperament and Considerations When Training in West Highland White Terrier G. must be taught its place in the hierarchy otherwise may try to dominate	Compared to the Wolfhound, he is a little more of a challenge in the training department, and must be monitored carefully and shown his place in the ‘pack’, otherwise his aggressive streak may come out and take over.

Note:

From the connections stated above, we can infer that “must be taught its place in the hierarchy otherwise may try to dominate”

From the passage we can know that the sentence “Compared to the Wolfhound, he is a little more of a challenge in the training department, and must be monitored carefully and shown his place in the ‘pack’, otherwise his aggressive streak may come out and take over.” Which is sentence will be support the writer’s ideal in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“must be monitored carefully and shown his place in the ‘pack’” in Option G of Q will show more detail and support “must be taught its place” in P.

“must be” appears in both Q and P.

Hence the answer is G. must be taught its place in the hierarchy otherwise may try to dominate

8 Answer: I

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q8: Temperament and Considerations When Training in West Highland White Terrier I requires more training and supervision	Compared to the Wolfhound, he is a little more of a challenge in the training department, and must be monitored carefully and shown his place in the ‘pack’, otherwise his aggressive streak may come out and take over.

Note:

From the question we can infer that “requires more training and supervision”

From the passage we can know that the sentence “Compared to the Wolfhound, he is a little more of a challenge in the training department, and must be monitored carefully and shown his place in the ‘pack’, otherwise his aggressive streak may come out and take over.” Which is sentence will be supportsupport the writer’s ideal in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“training” appear in both P and Q “must be” appears in both Q and P.

“must be monitored carefully” in the P has the same meaning with “supervision” in Option I of Q.

Hence the answer is I. requires more training and supervision.

9 Answer: A

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q 9: Behaviour around Children in West Highland White Terrier A. not very tolerant of or interested in gestures of affection from children (or any member of the family)	He is not that interested in 'cuddles' either, so don't let his size fool you into suggesting otherwise -this is no toy dog.
Note: According to the question, we can assume that “not very tolerant of or interested in gestures of affection from children (or any member of the family)” From the passage we can infer that “He is not that interested in ‘cuddles’ either, so don’t let his size fool you into suggesting otherwise -this is no toy dog.” which support the writer’s ideal and help us can find the answer from this sentence. The clues help the reader find out the answer: “interested” appears both in Q and P. “cuddles” in the P has the same meaning with “gestures of affection”. Hence the answer is A. not very tolerant of or interested in gestures of affection from children (or any member of the family)

10 Answer: B

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q10: Behaviour around Children in West Highland White Terrier B. generally well-behaved around children, but inclined to react badly to very young children who are loud and energetic	And while he is excellent with older kids, toddlers should not be left alone around the Highland as their size, coupled with their noisiness and hyperactivity, may prompt an aggressive response from the dog.

Note:

From the question we can assume that the writer asked “generally well-behaved around children, but inclined to react badly to very young children who are loud and energetic.”

From the passage we can infer that “And while he is excellent with older kids, toddlers should not be left alone around the Highland as their size, coupled with their noisiness and hyperactivity, may prompt an aggressive response from the dog.” Which support the writer’s ideal.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

In this situation we can know that “well-behaved around children” in Option A of Q has the same meaning with “excellent with older kids” in P

“inclined to react badly” in Option B of Q has the same meaning with “aggressive response from the dog” in P.

“loud and energetic” in the Option B of Q has the same meaning with “noisiness and hyperactivity” in P.

Hence the answer is B. but inclined to react badly to very young children who are loud and energetic

11 Answer: A

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q11: The Irish Wolfhound, despite its size and reputation A actually makes a pretty ineffectual watchdog, being slow to react to intruders or to perceive them as a threat	His size limits his ability to respond meaningfully to any real threat discovered though.

Note:

From the connections stated above, "A actually makes a pretty ineffectual watchdog, being slow to react to intruders or to perceive them as a threat"

From the passage we can infer that "His size limits his ability to respond meaningfully to any real threat discovered though" which is the information related with question. and support for the sentence in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

"threat" appears both in Q and the P.

"react" in Option A of Q and "respond" in the P they have the same meaning which is respond or behave in a particular way in response to something.

"size" appears both in Q and the P

In this situation we can understand that "being slow to react" in Option A of Q has the same meaning with "limits his ability to respond" in P.

The answer here should be A actually makes a pretty ineffectual watchdog, being slow to react to intruders or to perceive them as a threat

12 Answer: E

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q12: The West Highland White Terrier is quick to respond to intruders and alert the other members of the household E though it is largely ineffectual when it comes to neutralising any threats that have been identified.	He also loves to make noise, making him the perfect watchdog and quick to alert you when anything suspicious occurs.

Note:

From the question we can infer that ‘The English judicial system stands to benefit from incarcerating offenders.’

According to the passage, the writer show for the reader know ‘The degree of civilisation in a society is revealed by not having prisons and instead by addressing social issues in society itself.’ which is sentence support some information in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“quick to respond” in the Q has the same meaning with “quick to alert” in the P.

“intruders” in Q has the same meaning with “anything suspicious occurs” in the P.

One more reason we choose Option E: “threats that have been identified” in the Option E has the same meaning with “anything suspicious occurs” in the P.

Therefore, the answer here should be E though it is largely ineffectual when it comes to neutralising any threats that have been identified

13 Answer: B

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q13: Granted the Irish Wolfhound has the ideal temperament to become a loyal member of the family B it is important to consider the costs of feeding and cleaning up after it, as well as the space requirements for keeping one, before making the decision to purchase	Another practicality, and also a factor that influences cost (the cost of clean-up), is his tendency to shed. Irish Wolfhounds shed a lot of fur and dog hair will likely be deposited all over the house in vast quantities. If all this is bearable and if you still want a cuddly, affectionate giant anyway, then go for it! The Irish Wolfhound will provide you with many years of loyalty and friendship.

Note:

From the connections stated above, the writer shows the reader “Granted the Irish Wolfhound has the ideal temperament to become a loyal member of the family”

According to the passage, “Another practicality, and also a factor that influences cost (the cost of clean-up), is his tendency to shed. If all this is bearable and if you still want a cuddly, affectionate giant anyway, then go for it! The Irish Wolfhound will provide you with many years of loyalty and friendship.” which is sentence support some information in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“become a loyal member of the family” in the Q has the same meaning with “provide you with many years of loyalty and friendship” in the P.

One more reason we choose Option E: “the costs of feeding and cleaning up” in the Option B has the same meaning with “the cost of clean-up” in the P.

Therefore, the answer here should be B it is important to consider the costs of feeding and cleaning up after it, as well as the space requirements for keeping one, before making the decision to purchase

27 Answer: YES

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q27:When a warm front from an extratropical cyclone meets a cold front, snow is more likely to occur on the poleward side of the weather system.	Snow is typically the product of weather conditions in which an extratropical cyclone has formed. Extratropical cyclones bring extremely hazardous weather, such as high winds and heavy rain or snow, and are often referred to as windstorms in Europe.

According to the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned “When a warm front from an extratropical cyclone meets a cold front, snow is more likely to occur on the poleward side of the weather system.”

From the passage, we can infer that “Snow is typically the product of weather conditions in which an extratropical cyclone has formed. Extratropical cyclones bring extremely hazardous weather, such as high winds and heavy rain or snow, and are often referred to as windstorms in Europe.” which is the sentence support for the the writer’s idea.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“an extratropical cyclone” appears in both Q and P. So the reader can find the right answer from it.

“cold front” appears in both Q and P. So the reader can find the right answer from it.

“the poleward side” appears in both Q and P. So the reader can find the right answer from it.

These clues in bot P and Q support each other.

Hence the answer here should be YES

28 Answer: NO

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q28: Lake-effect snow is aptly named, given that it is a weather phenomenon which is only associated with lakes.	Lake-effect snow is another kind of common snowfall. Although the name suggests a particular correspondence of this type of precipitation to lake features, in fact, all narrow bands of water may generate it.

According to the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “: Lake-effect snow is aptly named, given that it is a weather phenomenon which is only associated with lakes.”

From the passage, we can infer that “Lake-effect snow is another kind of common snowfall. Although the name suggests a particular correspondence of this type of precipitation to lake features, in fact, all narrow bands of water may generate it.” which is the sentence support for the writer’s idea.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“Lake-effect snow” appears in both Q and the P. So the reader can find the right answer from it.

In this situation we can understand that “associated with lakes” in Q which not relevant with “this type of precipitation to lake features” in P. They do not support each other.

So the answer should be NO

29 Answer: YES

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q 29: Heavy snowfall is more likely to be seen on the side of the mountain that is exposed to high winds.	Mountainous areas are also prone to experiencing heavy snowfall. Accumulations typically occur on the windward side of the mountain as precipitation is 'squeezed out' of the warm moist air as it is forced to ascend the slopes

According to the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned “Heavy snowfall is more likely to be seen on the side of the mountain that is exposed to high winds.”

From the passage, we can infer that the writer give the way “Mountainous areas are also prone to experiencing heavy snowfall. Accumulations typically occur on the windward side of the mountain as precipitation is 'squeezed out' of the warm moist air as it is forced to ascend the slopes” which support for the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“heavy snowfall ” appears in both Q and P. So the reader can find the right answer from it.

In this situation we can understand that “the side of the mountain that is exposed to high winds” in Q has the same meaning with “the windward side of the mountain” in P.

So the answer should be YES

30 Answer: YES

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q30: In the absence of dust or a similar particle to start the freezing process, supercool moisture will not freeze in a cloud whose mean temperature is -34 degrees or more.	Temperatures lower than minus 35 degrees Celsius are required for this supercool moisture to freeze by itself. In warmer clouds, an aerosol particle such as clay or desert dust, or an ice nucleus is needed for the freezing to start.
Note: According to the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “In the absence of dust or a similar particle to start the freezing process, supercool moisture will not freeze in a cloud whose mean temperature is -34 degrees or more.” From the passage, we can infer that “Temperatures lower than minus 35 degrees Celsius are required for this supercool moisture to freeze by itself. In warmer clouds, an aerosol particle such as clay or desert dust, or an ice nucleus is needed for the freezing to start.” which is the sentence support for the the writer’s idea. The clues help the reader find out the answer: “Temperatures lower than minus 35 degrees Celsius” in the P has the same meaning with “temperature is -34 degrees or more” in Q. “temperature” appears in both P and Q. “supercool moisture” appears in both P and Q which helps the reader can find out the correct answer. So the answer should be YES

31 Answer: NO

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q31: The real colour of snow is the same as the colour snow appears to be to the human eye.	Although the ice crystals that land on the ground are actually transparent, hollow imperfections in them mean that light is scattered and they often appear white in colour owing to diffuse reflection of the whole spectrum of light.

Note:

According to the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “The real colour of snow is the same as the colour snow appears to be to the human eye.”

From the passage, we can infer that the writer gives information to support the question “Although the ice crystals that land on the ground are actually transparent, hollow imperfections in them mean that light is scattered and they often appear white in colour owing to diffuse reflection of the whole spectrum of light.” which is the sentence support for the writer’s idea.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“as the colour snow appears to be to the human eye.” in the Q which do not relevant with “white in colour owing to diffuse reflection of the whole spectrum of light” in P. They do not support each other.

Therefore, the answer should be NO

32 Answer: YES

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q32: Snowflakes shaped like a prism are more likely to form in milder weather than are flakes with more intricate growth patterns.	The shape of a snowflake is determined by the atmospheric conditions present at the time of its formation, specifically temperature and humidity. Between 0 and -3 degrees Celsius, thin flat crystals called planar crystals grow.

According to the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “Snowflakes shaped like a prism are more likely to form in milder weather than are flakes with more intricate growth patterns.”

From the passage, we can infer that the writer mention about the “The shape of a snowflake is determined by the atmospheric conditions present at the time of its formation, specifically temperature and humidity. Between 0 and -3 degrees Celsius, thin flat crystals called planar crystals grow.” which is the sentence support for the the writer’s idea.

The clues helps the reader find out the answer:

In this situaion we can know that “Snowflakes shaped” in the Q has the same meaning with “The shape of a snowflake” in the P.

In this situaion we can know that “form in milder weather” in the Q has the same meaning with “atmospheric conditions present at the time of its formation” in the P.

“growth” in Q has the same meaning with “grow” in P.

Hence, the answer should be YES.

33 Answer: NOT GIVEN

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q33: The thin flat crystals created at temperatures of between zero and minus three degrees Celsius are more voluminous than column-like crystals.	Between 0 and -3 degrees Celsius, thin flat crystals called planar crystals grow. From -3 to 8, the crystals form needles or prisms with pencil-like shapes. The shape then reverts back to plate-like until after 22 degrees Celsius when column-like structures (needles and prisms, etc.) begin to form again. At temperatures of 22 degrees and below, as well as the column-like structures, more complex growth patterns also form.

Note: :

According to the passage, we can assume that “The thin flat crystals created at temperatures of between zero and minus three degrees Celsius are more voluminous than column-like crystals.”

According to the question, we can assume that “Between 0 and -3 degrees Celsius, thin flat crystals called planar crystals grow. From -3 to 8, the crystals form needles or prisms with pencil-like shapes. The shape then reverts back to plate-like until after 22 degrees Celsius when column-like structures (needles and prisms, etc.) begin to form again. At temperatures of 22 degrees and below, as well as the column-like structures, more complex growth patterns also form.” Which not support the writer’s ideal.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“between zero and minus three degrees Celsius” appears in both the Q and the P. But no more detail in the P can support the information

Therefore, the answer should be NOT GIVEN.

34 Answer: quantities

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q34: While snowfall is not an uncommon feature of a United Kingdom winter, it is rare for significant ___ to accumulate, or for the snow to remain on the ground for any great length of time.	Snowfall occurs frequently in the U.K., but the quantities are typically small and it seldom persists for very long..

Note:

According to the question, we can assume that “While snowfall is not an uncommon feature of a United Kingdom winter, it is rare for significant__ to accumulate, or for the snow to remain on the ground for any great length of time.” □ The space “__” in Q need noun phrase.

From the passage, we can infer that “Snowfall occurs frequently in the U.K., but the quantities are typically small and it seldom persists for very long” which is the sentence support for the the writer’s idea.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

In this situation we can know that “United Kingdom” in the Q has the same meaning with “the U.K” in P.

“rare” in the Q has the same meaning with “seldom” in P which mean notcommon; infrequent.

Therefore, the answer should be quantities

35 Answer: trend

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q35: Three consecutive winters have failed to follow the __ towards milder, wetter weather. trend	In recent years, a trend towards milder, wetter winters has been developing, though the 2010/11, 2011/12 and 2012/13 winters seem to have bucked the trend and, indeed, represent the longest period of consecutive cold winters for more than 50 years

Note:

According to the passage, we can assume “Three consecutive winters have failed to follow the ___ towards milder, wetter weather” □ the space need verb.

According to the question, we can assume that “n recent years, a trend towards milder, wetter winters has been developing, though the 2010/11, 2011/12 and 2012/13 winters seem to have bucked the trend and, indeed, represent the longest period of consecutive cold winters for more than 50 years” which is the sentence support for the the writer’s idea.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“Hans Gross” appear in both the Q and the P. So the reader can find the answer.

In this situation we can know that “Three consecutive winters” has the same meaning with “2010/11, 2011/12 and 2012/13 winters” in P.

“towards milder, wetter weather.” in Q has the same meaning with “a trend towards milder, wetter winters”.

Therefore, the answer should be trend.

36 Answer: severe winters|very cold weather

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q36: Despite its latitude, the British Isles does not suffer from ___ on account of the influence of the Gulf Stream.	Were their predictions to be realised, then this would point to the isles undergoing a subtle climatic change and a return to more severe winters in general.

Note: :

According to the passage, we can assume that “Despite its latitude, the British Isles does not suffer from ___ on account of the influence of the Gulf Stream” □ The space “_” in the Q need noun/ noun phrase.

According to the question, we can assume that “Were their predictions to be realised, then this would point to the isles undergoing a subtle climatic change and a return to more severe winters in general “

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

In this situation we can understand that “influence of the Gulf Stream” in Q which has the same meaning with “a subtle climatic change” in P

Therefore, the answer should be severe winters| very cold weather

37 Answer: (subtle) climatic change

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q37: Should next winter be another unusually cold one , this may be indicative of the fact that a ___ is under way.	Were their predictions to be realised, then this would point to the isles undergoing a subtle climatic change and a return to more severe winters in general.

According to the passage, we can assume that “Should next winter be another unusually cold one, this may be indicative of the fact that a ___ is under way.”

□ The space need noun phrase.

According to the question, we can assume that “Were their predictions to be realised, then this would point to the isles undergoing a subtle climatic change and a return to more severe winters in general.”

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

In this situation we can understand “another unusually cold one” in Q which has the same meaning “a subtle climatic change” in P.

In this situation we can understand that “this may be indicative” in Q which has the same meaning with “this would point” in P. Its help the reader find out the correct answer.

Therefore, the answer should be (subtle) climatic change

38 Answer: A

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q38: However, this perception has changed fairly dramatically over the last three winters, which have been the longest ___ period of cold winters for more than half a century. A. uninterrupted	In recent years, a trend towards milder, wetter winters has been developing, though the 2010/11, 2011/12 and 2012/13 winters seem to have bucked the trend and, indeed, represent the longest period of consecutive cold winters for more than 50 years. For its latitude, the British Isles should see far more prolonged cold weather in winter and regular snowfall

From the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “ However, this perception has changed fairly dramatically over the last three winters, which have been the longest ___ period of cold winters for more than half a century.”

From the passage the writer show the reader the information to support the question “In recent years, a trend towards milder, wetter winters has been developing, though the 2010/11, 2011/12 and 2012/13 winters seem to have bucked the trend and, indeed, represent the longest period of consecutive cold winters for more than 50 years. For its latitude, the British Isles should see far more prolonged cold weather in winter and regular snowfall”

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“the last three winters” in Q which has the same meaning with “though the 2010/11, 2011/12 and 2012/13 winters” in the P.

In this situation we can understand that “period of cold winters for more than half a century” in Q which has the same meaning with “the longest period of consecutive cold winters for more than 50 years” in P.

One more reason we choose the Option A: “consecutive cold winters” in P which has the same meaning with “uninterrupted” in Option A of Q.

So the answer should be A. uninterrupted

39 Answer: E

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
-----------------------	--------------------------

Q39: It is now feared that the climate of the British Isles is changing and that, should the next few winters be equally severe, this could signal a permanent move to more ___ winter weather in general. E, extreme	Were their predictions to be realised, then this would point to the isles undergoing a subtle climatic change and a return to more severe winters in general.
--	--

From the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “t is now feared that the climate of the British Isles is changing and that, should the next few winters be equally severe, this could signal a permanent move to more__winter weather in general.”

From the passage the writer show the reader the information to support the question that “Were their predictions to be realised, then this would point to the isles undergoing a subtle climatic change and a return to more severe winters in general.”

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

In this situation we can understand that “the climate of the British Isles is changing” in Q which has the same meaning “the isles undergoing a subtle climatic change” in P.

One more reason we choose Option : “severe” in P which has the same meaning with “extreme”

So the answer should be E extreme

40 Answer: D

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q40: Scientists blame sunspot and geothermal activity as well as the ___ influence of the Gulf Stream, which, until now, has kept Britain’s climate milder than that of areas of similar latitude throughout the rest of the world. D. waning	They point to sunspot and geothermal activity, and changes in the strength of the Gulf Stream as key indicators of the fact that a cold winter is in prospect.

Note:

From the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “Scientists blame sunspot and geothermal activity as well as the ___ influence of the Gulf Stream, which, until now, has kept Britain’s climate milder than that of areas of similar latitude throughout the rest of the world.”

From the passage the writer show the reader the information to support the question that “They point to sunspot and geothermal activity, and changes in the strength of the Gulf Stream as key indicators of the fact that a cold winter is in prospect. “

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“Scientists blame sunspot and geothermal activity” in Q has the same meaning with “They point to sunspot and geothermal activity” in P. .

“the Gulf Stream” appears in both Q and the P. So the reader can find the answer.

One more reason we choose Option D: “changes in the strength” in P has the same meaning with “waning” in Option D of Q.

So the answer should be D. waning

14 Answer: D

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q14: O’Flaherty went to Rome D. under the instructions of the religious organisation of which he was a part	While studying in Rome, he earned a degree in theology and was ordained in 1925 before going on to study there for a further two years, earning his doctorates in divinity, canon law and philosophy

Note:

From the question we can know that “O’Flaherty went to Rome”

From the passage, the author show the reader “While studying in Rome, he earned a degree in theology and was ordained in 1925 before going on to study there for a further two years, earning his doctorates in divinity, canon law and philosophy” which is sentence support some information in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“Rome,” appears both in Q and P.

In this situation we can understand that “the religious organisation of which he was a part” in Option D of Q has the same meaning with “he earned a degree in theology and was ordained in 1925” in P.

Therefore, the answer is D under the instructions of the religious organisation of which he was a part

15 Answer: A

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q 15 : O’Flaherty’s golfing talents □A. were exploited by him as a means by which to meet and influence important people.	His golfing skills were also noted, and he developed a number of high-profile connections in Italy through the world of golf, often playing with the likes of ex-king Alfonso of Spain and Count Ciana, Mussolini's son-in-law.

Note:

From the question the author show “Italian scientist, Lombroso proposes a__to criminality.”□ the space “__” need noun or noun phrase

From the passage, the author show the reader“With the publication of his theories of criminal behaviour, Lombroso advanced the idea that criminal behaviour was attributable to physiological disposition rather than to any existential reasons” which is sentence support some information in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“golfing talents” in Q has the same meaning with “His golfing skills were also noted” in the P.

“were exploited by him” in Option A of Q has the same meaning with “he developed a number of high-profile” in Q

“meet and influence important people” in Option A of Q has the same meaning with “often playing with the likes of ex-king Alfonso of Spain and Count Ciana, Mussolini's son-in-law” in the P.

So, the answer should be A were exploited by him as a means by which to meet and influence important people.

16 Answer: B

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q16: When it came to Nazi ideology, O’Flaherty’s beliefs B. were influenced by the conclusions he had drawn from socialising with certain groups of people in the past.	O’Flaherty, on the other hand, having socialised with many prominent Jews throughout his time in Italy, did not adhere to the Nazi ideology.

Note:

From the question we can know that “When it came to Nazi ideology, O’Flaherty’s beliefs”

From the passage we can infer that the writers show the reader that ‘O’Flaherty, on the other hand, having socialised with many prominent Jews throughout his time in Italy, did not adhere to the Nazi ideology” which support the author’ ideal in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“Nazi ideology” appears both in the Q and the P which help us can find the clues.

“having socialised with many prominent Jews throughout his time in Italy” in P has the same meaning with “socialising with certain groups of people in the past” in the Q. which help us can find the clues.

So the answer here is B were influenced by the conclusions he had drawn from socialising with certain groups of people in the past.

17-18 Answer: C,D

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q17: Where did O’Flaherty conceal the people he had taken into his care? C . in the place where he officially lived at the time	O’Flaherty used his old college and indeed his own official residence as hiding places for the people he was trying to protect.

Note:

From the question “Criminal types are claimed to be__distinctive ‘atavistic’ or primitive features.”

From the passage “Characterised by a strong, well-defined jaw and heavy brow, they certainly had little to recommend them in the beauty stakes.” which support the author’ ideal in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“conceal the people he had taken into his care” in Q has the same meaning with “hiding places for the people he was trying to protect” in P

One more reason we choose Option C: “indeed his own official residence” in P has the same meaning with “the place where he officially lived”

So, the answer here is C. in the place where he officially lived at the time

Q18:Where did O’Flaherty conceal the people he had taken into his care? D . in the residences of certain religious groups	As the situation got more and more desperate, and the numbers of people threatened grew, he even turned to using monasteries and convents as hideouts
Note: From the question “Where did O’Flaherty conceal the people he had taken into his care?” From the passage, “As the situation got more and more desperate, and the numbers of people threatened grew, he even turned to using monasteries and convents as hideouts.” which support the author’ ideal in the question. The clues help the reader find out the answer: In this situation we can understand that “the numbers of people threatened grew” in P will show more details and support “the people he had taken into his care”. One more reason we choose Option D: “in the residences of certain religious groups” in Option D of Q has the same meaning with “using monasteries and convents as hideouts” in the P. So, the answer is D. in the residences of certain religious groups

19 Answer: C

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q19:What impressive aspect of the actions of O’Flaherty’s helpers does the writer highlight? C . their disregard for the possible consequences of being caught	were not just risking a reprimand from the fascists had they been caught but were endangering their own lives by being party to O'Flaherty's campaign.

Note:

From the question we can infer the writer showed the reader that “What impressive aspect of the actions of O’Flaherty’s helpers does the writer highlight?”

From the passage we can know that “were not just risking a reprimand from the fascists had they been caught but were endangering their own lives by being party to O’Flaherty’s campaign” Which support the writer’s ideal in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“were not just risking a reprimand from the fascists had they been caught” in the P will show more detail and support the ideal “aspect of the actions of O’Flaherty’s helpers” in the Q.

“caught” appears in both Q and P, which help the reader can find out the clues.

In this situation we can understand that “their disregard for the possible consequences of being caught” in Option C of Q has the same meaning with “were not just risking a reprimand/ they been caught/ were endangering their own lives” in the P.

So , the answer is C their disregard for the possible consequences of being caught

20 Answer: C

Keywords Questions	in	Similar words in Passage
Q 20 : Why was O’Flaherty nicknamed the Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican? <input type="checkbox"/> C. He had successfully used disguises to avoid being identified.		His success in never being identified when on unauthorised rescue missions outside of Vatican City, and in smuggling Jews and allied airmen inside the city led to him being given the nickname the Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican , an acknowledgement of how much the master of disguise O’Flaherty had become.

Note:

From the question we can infer that the writer showed the reader “Why was O’Flaherty nicknamed the Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican?”

From the passage we can know that “His success in never being identified when on unauthorised rescue missions outside of Vatican City, and in smuggling Jews and allied airmen inside the city led to him being given the nickname the Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican, an acknowledgement of how much the master of disguise O’Flaherty had become.” Which support the writer’s ideal in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“nickname the Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican “ appears both in the question and the passage which help us can find the clues.

The keyword “successfully” in Option C of Q has the same meaning with “success” in the P.

The keyword “being identified” in Option C of Q has the same meaning with “being identified” in the P.

One more reason we choose the Option C: “He had successfully used disguises to avoid being identified” in Option C of Q has the same meaning with “His success in never being identified”

So, the answer is C. He had successfully used disguises to avoid being identified.

21 Answer: A

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q21: What impression does the writer leave us with of his own personal feelings with respect to O’Flaherty’s life and achievements? A. He admires O’Flaherty’s bravery and determination to stop injustice.	In life, he saved thousands of innocent Romans; in death, he is remembered as a man who bravely stood up to extremism and who was not prepared to turn a blind eye to injustice.

Note:

From the question, we can assume infer that the writer showed the reader What impression does the writer leave us with of his own personal feelings with respect to O’Flaherty’s life and achievements?”

From the passage the writer give some information to explain for the writer’s ideal in question “In life, he saved thousands of innocent Romans; in death, he is remembered as a man who bravely stood up to extremism and who was not prepared to turn a blind eye to injustice.” which support the author’s ideal in the question.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

In this situation we can know that the author mentions about “impression does the writer leave us” in Q and also give information to support “he is remembered as a man” in P.

One more reason we choose Option A: “O’Flaherty’s bravery and determination to stop injustice” in Option A of Q has the same meaning with “bravely stood up to extremism and who was not prepared to turn a blind eye to injustice” in the P.

Hence, the answer here should be: A.He admires O’Flaherty’s bravery and determination to stop injustice

22 Answer: concentration camps

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q22: O’Flaherty’s personal beliefs were at loggerheads with fascist ideology, which he saw as mindless propaganda, so he took it upon himself to combat the injustices being perpetrated against Jews and other minority groups at the hands of the German and Italian police, who, acting on orders from above, were rounding said groups up to be sent to —	O’Flaherty, on the other hand, having socialised with many prominent Jews throughout his time in Italy, did not adhere to the Nazi ideology, and it was then that he started to act, protecting innocent Jews and other victims of injustice, and keeping them away from the claws of the Italian and German police, whose orders were to ship them to concentration camps

Note:

From the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “O’Flaherty’s personal beliefs were at loggerheads with fascist ideology, which he saw as mindless propaganda, so he took it upon himself to combat the injustices being perpetrated against Jews and other minority groups at the hands of the German and Italian police, who, acting on orders from above, were rounding said groups up to be sent to ___” □The space need noun phrase.

From the passage the writer show the reader the information to support the question that “O’Flaherty, on the other hand, having socialised with many prominent Jews throughout his time in Italy, did not adhere to the Nazi ideology, and it was then that he started to act, protecting innocent Jews and other victims of injustice, and keeping them away from the claws of the Italian and German police, whose orders were to ship them to concentration camps.”

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

The keyword “O’Flaherty” appears both in Q and P which help us can find out the clues.

“the German and Italian police” appear in both Q and P. So the reader can find the right answer from it.

In this situation we can understand that “He took it upon himself to fight the injustices” in Q has the same meaning with “protecting innocent Jews and other victims of injustice” in the P.

The answer is: concentration camps

23 Answer: caught

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q23: In helping O’Flaherty, these friends showed their own bravery as getting___ might have cost them their lives.	were not just risking a reprimand from the fascists had they been caught but were endangering their own lives by being party to O’Flaherty’s campaign

Note:

From the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “In helping O’Flaherty, these friends showed their own bravery as getting___ might have cost them their lives.” □ The space need verb.

From the passage the writer show the reader the information to support the question“were not just risking a reprimand from the fascists had they been caught but were endangering their own lives by being party to O’Flaherty's campaign”

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

In this situation we can understand that “might have cost them their lives” has the same meaning with “were endangering their own lives”. So the reader can find the right answer from it.

“O’Flaherty” appears in both Q and the P. So the reader can find the right answer from it.

The answer is: caught

24 Answer: allied armen

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q24: Not only did O’Flaherty help the ‘unwanted’, he also extended his assistance to fallen ___ as well as British soldiers who had been detained by the Germans.	O’Flaherty used his old college and indeed his own official residence as hiding places for the people he was trying to protect. allied armen. In the summer of 1943, O’Flaherty extended his efforts to include helping escaped British prisoners-of-war and shot-down allied airmen

According to the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “Not only did O’Flaherty help the ‘unwanted’, he also extended his assistance to fallen ___ as well as British soldiers who had been detained by the Germans.” □ The space need noun phrase.

From the passage, we can infer that “O’Flaherty used his old college and indeed his own official residence as hiding places for the people he was trying to protect. allied armen. In the summer of 1943, O’Flaherty extended his efforts to include helping escaped British prisoners-of-war and shot-down allied airmen”

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“extended” appear in both Q and P.

In this situation we can understand that “O’Flaherty extended his efforts” has the same meaning with “he also extended his assistance” in Q.

The answer here should be allied armen

25 Answer: smuggling

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q25: So effective had he been at ___Jews and servicemen inside that he earned the nickname The__Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican	His success in never being identified when on unauthorised rescue missions outside of Vatican City, and in smuggling Jews and allied airmen inside the city led to him being given the nickname the Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican, an acknowledgement of how much the master of disguise O’Flaherty had become

According to the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “So effective had he been at ___ Jews and servicemen inside that he earned the nickname The Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican” □ the space need noun.

From the passage the writer show the reader the information to support the question “His success in never being identified when on unauthorised rescue missions outside of Vatican City, and in smuggling Jews and allied airmen inside the city led to him being given the nickname the Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican, an acknowledgement of how much the master of disguise O’Flaherty had become” which is a sentence support for the writer’s idea.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

“the Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican” appear in both Q and P. So the reader can find the right answer from it.

“Jews” appear in both Q and P. So the reader can find the right answer from it.

“the nickname” appears in both Q and the P. So the reader can find the right answer from it.

The answer here should be smuggling

26 Answer: accolades

Keywords in Questions	Similar words in Passage
Q26:O’Flaherty received a huge number of ___ from countries all around the world in acknowledgement of his war-time feats.	After the war, O’Flaherty continued to serve in Rome and received many accolades, including the US Medal of Freedom and the title Commander of the British Empire

According to the question, we can assume that the writer mentioned about “O’Flaherty received a huge number of ___ from countries all around the world in acknowledgement of his war-time feats.” □ the space need noun.

From the passage, we can infer that “After the war, O’Flaherty continued to serve in Rome and received many accolades, including the US Medal of Freedom and the title Commander of the British Empire” which is a sentence support for the writer’s idea.

The clues help the reader find out the answer:

In this situation we can understand that “received many” in P has the same meaning with “received a huge number” in the Q.” So the reader can find the right answer from it.

“including the US Medal of Freedom and the title Commander of the British Empire” in P will show more detail and support “acknowledgement of his war-time feats” in the Q.

The answer here should be Accolades